Summary: When Zoro is raped and found on the deck of the Sunny Sanji has no idea that something was planted inside his lover and it was already starting to grow leaving Zoro with a choice have the creature or die.

1. Raped

Zoro couldn't move. The demon had a tight grip on his arms and legs pinning him to the wall of the Sunny.

"Damn let go of me." Zoro growled struggling to break free. He was alone on the ship as everyone else was in town having left him to guard the ship. Well he had done a wonderful job so far. The demon smiled sending a shiver down Zoro's back.

"Not till i'm done with you. "The demon said as Zoro blushed feeling his pants fell to his knees with a sharp jerk. "There is just one small thing i still need to do." Zoro panicked fighting desperately against the appendages that secured his limbs as something cool pressed up against his entrance. He whimpered clenching his knees together tightly a little to late though as something sharp and pointed shoved itself up inside him. A scream escaped his throat as white hot pain drowned his senses at the intrusion of the object and warm blood spilled down his legs dripping onto the Adam floors.

"Hmm come now it i didn't press that hard." The demon chuckled as Zoro's good eye grew wide as two more spikes stabbed into his abdomen with striking force his head slamming into the wall sending stars across his vision. The demon smirked as Zoro screamed hot liguid poured into his abdomen from the two spikes sticking into the soft flesh of his stomach. Zoro went limp as the spike in his ass released inside him his head falling forward as the hold on his limbs released sending him falling to the deck with a thud knocking the wind out of his body. The spikes withdrew with a sickening sound as the demons eyes raked over the swordsman's panting body.

"That was fun." The demon smirked as Zoro took one more deep breath before his mind went black.

Zoro woke with a start his head striking the floor as he fell out of his hammock surprisingly no one woke up. Well at least not everybody.

"Ow the hell are you doing moss-head get off of me." A voice muttered angerly from under him and Zoro jumped realizing he had landed on top of their chef Sanji. The cook pushed on the dark green fabric trying to shove the swordsman off his chest. Even though Zoro's body was rock hard with muscles he was still relatively light and that made shoving him off a bit easier.

"Sorry." he muttered rolling to the side clutching his head his one good eye slightly opened.

"Another nightmare?" Sanji asked placing a hand on his lovers face. Zoro nodded not looking at Sanji, hand shying to his abdomen where a thin bandage was wrapped around it. Sanji remembered when they had returned to the ship finding Zoro slumped against the wall blood spilling around his lower half his pants clinging to his knees and two deep puncture wounds in his lower abdomen. Sanji had rushed to his side so fast he almost ran into the hard adam wall of the Sunny. After a brief check up by Chopper who reaveled that Zoro had been raped but by what he could not tell Sanji gather the swordsman in his arms before heading to the bathroom to clean up the unconcious marimo by choppers approval of course, he would not have moved Zoro if not deamed okay by the doctor. Chopper said his inside was damaged but it would heal with time but would be very painful for the swordsman for it seemed like he had been raped with a knife. Sanji had been worried and furious but refused to show it to the rest of the crew as he worked on cleaning up his lover. An hour later Zoro awoke in the ships infurmary Sanji sound asleep by his arm. With a smile Zoro patted sanji on the head waking the sleeping cook who blink at him them smiled at seeing him awake. They had later moved to the boys quarters and Zoro had fallen asleep instantly on his hammock. All those events lead up to this moment.

"Come on i'll get you something to drink from the kitchen." Sanji said tugging at Zoro's arm.

"No i'm fine Sanji i just want to sleep." Zoro whispered pulling his arm from Sanji's grip laying on his side on the floor to tired to crawl back into bed pulling the blanket to was still wrapped around him up to his torso. Sanji raised an eyebrow but shrugged laying down with his chest nuzzled against Zoro's back hands wrapped around his abdomen gently as to not damage the already present wounds. Zoro sighed lifting one side of the blanket draping it over the cooks shoulders with one hand the other curled around the cooks cool fingers. Sanji smiled kissing the back of Zoro's green head his hand going in a circular motion on Zoro's bandaged stomach. A slight ripple ran under his fingers and Zoro breathed out but closed his eyes as sleep took his mind. Sanji rounded up the ripple as Zoro's stomach shuddering under his touch and buried his head between the broud shoulders Zoro's rythmic breathing lurring him to sleep.

2. Something is inside Zoro?

Sanji woke at his usual hour so he could start making breakfast for the rest of the crew. Zoro was still asleep beside him, at some point in the night he must have rolled over in his sleep cause he was now facing Sanji the moss-head's face only inches from his own. Smiling he placed a quick kiss to Zoro's cheek moving to untangled himself from the swordsman's abdomen only to stop when Zoro's stomach gave a slight jerk under his fingers a deep but quiet moan tumbling out of his partially open mouth.

"Zoro?" Sanji whispered grasping on of the broud shoulders that pressed aginst him giving it a slight shake. "Are you okay wake up."

Zoro cracked opened his one good eye and lazely looked at Sanji a hand covering his stomach. "Cook?"

"Are you hungry or something?" Sanji asked placing a hand on Zoro's forehead sighing with relief when he found it was not to warm to the touch. Zoro shook his head as another ripple spread outwards under the green fabric. Zoro's eye slipped shut as he tried to form the words that hung at the edge of his mind.

"Sanji..Something's...inside...me." Zoro gasped his one good eye cracking open to look at the cook.

"What?" Sanji raised an eyebrow at his lover eyes drifting to Zoro's abdomen which was partially covered by his hand.

"I..can..feel..it.." Zoro's eye slipped shut once again and he drew in a shaky breath sweat already stating to form on his brow. "It's...moving."

Sanji did not know what to say. Maybe the marimo was just delusional from all the blood he had lost the previos day. 'I mean he was raped and with something sharp as chopper had stated'. Sanji thought anger bubbling up in his gut at the thought of someone else in his swordsman.

"Somethings moving in your gut?" Sanji asked after a minute of akward silence. Zoro nodded the one tan hand that gripped his stomach tightened. Reaching out a hand Sanji gripped the edge of Zoro's robe slidding it down so he could get a clear look at his stomach. Even with the bandadge wrapped around his stomach Sanji could still make out the rather large ripple that moved under the tan skin.

"What is that?"

"Wake..up..chopper."

Sanji nodded moving swiftly but silently over to were the small doctor layed curled up in his hammock.

"Chopper wake up something is wrong with Zoro." Sanji stated trying to not sound to worried because that is what he was at that current moment, worried for Zoro.

"Huh Sanji what do you mean?" The little doctor asked rubbing a his eyes. After a few seconds of rubbing the sleep out of his eyes Chopper glanced towards the form of Zoro still laying on the floor. Chopper noticed to things, first was that Zoro was sweating and his breathing was quick and unorderally, second was the fact he was clutching at his abdomen a pained look etched on his face. Wide awake now Chopper hopped out of his hammock padding over to Zoro who looked at him through half opened eyes.

"Zoro what's wrong?

"Something.. inside..me, can..feel..it..moving." Zoro managed to say around the ragged breathing that gripped his body.

"What?" Chopper placed a hoover paw on the exposed skin of Zoro's stomach feeling the ripple that ran under the soft skin. "What the hell? Sanji take him to the medical bay i will be right there." Sanji nodded lifting Zoro into his arms and leaving the room a puzzled chopper still standing in the door way.

"This is not good."

Thank you for all the reviews I really like to hear what you guys think. If it sucks tell me cause I am kind of stumped on what to do next but be nice about it thanks. please keep reviewing.

3. Demon Spawn

Demon Spawn

"Zoro hang on i'm taking you to the infirmary then chopper will be able to figure out want's wrong with you okay?" Zoro only groaned as a black foot connected with the door to the infirmary kicking it open with with a slight thud seeing how his hands were full with the limp body of his lover. Once in the room he placed zoro onto the soft white sheets of the medical bed propping his head up with pillows along with removing his white short sleeve shirt thinking it would be easier for chopper to find out what was wrong with zoro without cutting up his clothing.

"Sanji i don't think i can it hurts so bad." Zoro whispered hands flying to his abdomen. "get it out." Sanji paled at the thought of what was inside zoro. What happened to him? A whimper escaped from the clenched mouth of the swordsman as chopper came hurrying in with a thick leather book.

"What's that chopper?" Sanji asked as chopper as he place the book on his desk before moving to Zoro who had curled up on his side arms wrapped around his lower abdomen.

"Something that might help us figure out what's wrong with Zoro. Robin gave it to me she said she may have an idea as to what did this to our swordsman." Chopper replied eyes still fixed on Zoro as he removed the bandage from his stomach revealing the two puncture wounds.

"What is her theory?"

"A demon."

Zoro's eyes grew wide while sanji gave a surprised gasp. "Your saying Zoro was raped by a demon? But that does not make any sense, how can a demon impregnate someone who is not even female." Sanji cried trying to keep his emotions in check which was hard beyond reason at how pissed he is.

"I don't know but from the movement in Zoro's abdomen i say Robin's theory is accurate plus from how round his stomach is getting i think it's still growing." Chopper stated pointing at the now risen abdomen. Zoro gulped hand migrating to cup the round area only to be swatted away by Sanji's hand. Zoro shot the cook a surpised look which turned to pure pain as his abdomen rose another few inches into the air a scream ripping out of his throat only to be silenced a minute later by sanji's hand over his mouth.

"Don't scream you idiot i don't think you will like everybody coming in here and seeing that now would you?" Sanji hissed gestering at Zoro's stomach.

"Sanji you can't expect him not to scream right now. His body is not meant to house a child and my god i hate saying it like that but that is the case Zoro. The only option is to remove it before it can grow anymore. "

"No chopper-san you can't remove it."

"Robin dear i'm so sorry did this marimo idiot wake you up." Sanji asked with hearts in his eyes causing Zoro to roll his eyes. Here he was with a fricking demon spawn growing inside him and he was all goo goo eyes for Robin.

"No Sanji-cue it's fine i was already up just doing some research so we can help out our new mother over here." She said with a smile ignoring the furious look she was recieving from the swordsman. " Anyway like i was saying you can't remove it not without killing Zoro in the process."

Sanji paled even more mouth slightly opened. "So your saying if we try to remove it Zoro will die?" Sanji asked eyes falling onto Zoro who look as lost as Sanji did.

"Yes if we try to remove it now it will release a deadly poison into Zoro and would continue to release the poison till it was either dead or removed but by then the poison would already be in his blood stream and he would be dead in 24 hours no matter what we did. I'm sorry Zoro but you are just going to have to have this thing althouth i don't know how. " Zoro's eyes fell to his stomach an emotion none of them have ever really seen on the swordsman's face shining in his eyes.

"What happens to me if i have it?" he asked voice barely a whisper the fear in his voice tearing at Sanji's heart.

"Sadly i don't know." Robin said shaking her head ever so slightly. Zoro nodded before flinching as he stomach gave a jerk resulting in it rising another inch.

"Wait chopper how many day's ago did Zoro get um..raped?" Robin asked grabbing the book she had given to chopper thumbing through it till she found what she was looking for.

"Um about two days ago, why is something wrong?" The doctor asked as Robin scanned the page.

"Do you want the good news or the bad Zoro?" she asked eyes rising from the book resting on the form on the bed.

"Bad." Zoro said as Sanji handed him a glass of water from the desk.

" Okay so from how much your abomen has risen in the past day the creature is already in stage 4 of 8."

"And what will happen when it reaches stage 8?" Sanji asked reaching back to grasp one of Zoro's hands giving it a firm squeeze.

"The creature will basically claw it's way out of Zoro's abdomen and by then it will be the size Chopper is now." Zoro choked the glass falling from his hand to shatter on the adam floors his face deathly pale. Sanji whirled around raising Zoro into a sitting position as he coughed into his hand. After a few minutes of ragged coughing Zoro slumped against the pillow his chest rising and falling.

"And what is the good news Robin?" Chopper asked.

"There is a way to remove the creature once it hits Stage 7 without causing any damage to Zoro in any way."

"Well that's great tell us what it is." Sanji said hope for his lover blooming in his chest.

"They only way to remove it safetly is to perform a ritual but here is the twist, it must be done by Hawkeye Mihawk."

Once again Zoro flinched but instead of choking he had fallen of the bed onto the floor in a heap his eyes matching Sanji's eyes.

"HAWKEYE MIHAWK!"

Well there you go, now you know what's wrong with zoro and i now i'm so cruel but it will get better for Zoro and Sanji, So please review and thanks for reading.
